Some Ohio Truck Drivers Off Job Despite Accord

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Despite the announcement of a settlement in a fuel tanker drivers strike Tuesday, Ohio Teamsters Union strikers were staying off their jobs until ratification of the agreement.

This continued the threat of petroleum fuel shortages for those receiving deliveries by independent tank trucking companies.

More than 700 drivers in Cuyahoga, Lake, Summit and Stark counties in Northeast Ohio and 500 more around Toledo, Lima and Youngstown were among the first in the Midwest to strike Sunday.

A union spokesman in Chicago, where the Teamsters agreement was reached, said truckers were expected to be back on the highways by Dec. 14.

Full details of the tentative three-year agreement were not announced, but it was made known that hourly pay for gasoline and fuel oil truck drivers was raised by $1.65. They currently make $4.07 an hour. The tentative settlement was 10 cents less an hour than asked on the national level and 20 cents less than asked by Cleveland strikers.

The strike affected Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Kentucky, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota.

Some violence was reported Tuesday in Cleveland. An attorney for the Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) said two unidentified employees were beaten by pickets and windshields of six cars were broken.

Albert Williamson, business manager of Local 545, Petroleum Truck Drivers and Miscellaneous Workers, said union members were angered when SOHIO employees began driving trucks belonging to their employer, Refiners Transport Terminal Corp., which was struck.

SOHIO pointed out that the strike was against independent tank trucking firms and not against oil companies, but that oil firms use independent truckers to handle some of their shipments. SOHIO was the hardest hit major oil company.

Williamson said SOHIO was not making emergency shipments from the Refiners Transport Terminal Corp., but that SOHIO was trying to "break the strike." He claimed there were no emergencies created by the strike because of the availability of fuel from non-striking companies.

Manpower Bill Is Revamped

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate-House conference committee has cut $2.5 billion from a public service jobs and manpower training bill in hopes of avoiding a presidential veto.

The conferees first announced a $12 billion bill had been agreed upon Tuesday, but they went back into session and made the cuts after Republicans said President Nixon would be likely to turn back the higher measure.

The bill provides for a major change in operation of the manpower training programs, which have been running for eight years.

Mayors and the governors would take over the programs, shifting federal responsibility to the Labor Department, cutting out the Office of Economic Opportunity and the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

Teays Valley Levy Request Defeated

A 4-mill operating levy for Teays Valley schools was defeated for the third time Tuesday in a special election in the school district.

The levy had appeared on the ballot and was defeated in both the May primary and November general election.

Tuesday's vote count was 618 for the levy; 743 against.

The levy was not a renewal but a request for an additional four mills for current operating expenses. If approved, taxes would have been collected during the 1971 calendar year.

LESS than one-third of the district's registered voters went to the polls for the special election. Of the 3,608 eligible to vote, a total of 1,361 cast ballots.

Benis Lutz, Teays Valley School superintendent, said anticipated appropriations will be revised approximately $185,000 downward. "We cannot expand our program," he said, "and will not determine where and the amount of the cutbacks that must be made until January and the end of the year balance is recorded."

He said further that he felt the school had always operated in an ultra conservative manner.

"What we now have, is worth keeping," he stressed, saying any cutbacks will be made in building maintenance and building improvements — not in the quality of education. "We will go until we have nothing more to go on," he stated.

The operating levy official vote by precinct is as follows: Ashville Village E., 71 for; 52 against; Ashville N., 63 for; 34 against; Ashville W., 44 for; 57 against; South Bloomfield Village, 17 for; 67 against; Harrison Twp. E., 51 for; 28 against; Harrison Twp. W., 42 for; 34 against; Madison Twp., 69 for; 86 against.

Commercial Point Village, 20 for; 28 against; Orient Village, 13 for; 11 against; Scioto Twp. N., 48 for; 69 against; Scioto Twp. S., 47 for; 78 against; Walnut Twp. E., 54 for; 66 against; Walnut Twp. W., 65 for; 76 against; (included 6 votes cast from Circleville N.) Amanda A., 12 for; 14 against; Amanda B., 11 for; 14 against; total, 618 for; 743 against.

Ohio Soldier Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army Spec. 5 Phelbor M. Greer, son of Irene Greer of Toledo Ohio, has died in Vietnam of a cause other than battle wounds, the Defense Department reported Tuesday.

Hope Congressional Action Will Avert Rail Shutdown

Calley Lawyers Open Defense

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — From sworn statements of Vietnamese people will come the first defense for Lt. William L. Calley, the 5-foot-3 platoon leader who has been portrayed at a court-martial as decreeing and dealing death to masses of their countrymen at My Lai.

After its 35th witness testified Tuesday, the prosecution conditionally rested its case, reserving the right to reopen it if two missing witnesses can be found.

Planning to call its first witness Thursday morning, the defense today was to present to Judge Reid W. Kennedy an undisclosed number of the statements taken by Calley and two attorneys in Vietnam just before the trial started.

No Vietnamese will come to this infantry post to testify about what happened in the village near the South China Sea on March 16, 1968.

The six-officer jury, trying Calley on charges of murdering 302 Vietnamese, was given to day off. Administrative business and routine motions were to be taken care of at an afternoon session.

George Latimer, Calley's chief civilian lawyer, said the free day was needed to check the status of witnesses being summoned at a peak travel time.

The prosecution—responsible for arranging for all witnesses—has said the defense has requested the appearance of 57.

Judge Kennedy, a colonel, indicated that unless the trial appears near completion, he will recess for Christmas and New Years holidays after Dec. 18. The jurors return to their homes each night.

In testimony spanning more than three weeks, the jurors—two captains, three majors and a colonel—heard witnesses relate that Calley ordered and participated in the execution of My Lai villagers at two main sites, one a trail intersection in the village, and the other a ditch just outside.

Four GI's testified they saw

Calley shooting people at the ditch and one said he saw killing by the lieutenant at the trail intersection.

James Joseph Dursi, a Western Electric employee from Brooklyn, N. Y., said Tuesday he and Pic Paul Meadlo were told by Calley "to start moving them into the ditch."

"Some of them started crying or yelling," said Dursi, the last prosecution witness. "I was ordered to shoot."

"By whom?"

"By Lt. Calley."

Dursi continued, "Then Lt. Calley and Meadlo started firing. Meadlo turned to me shortly after the shooting began and said 'Shoot, who don't you fire?' I just said, 'I can't, I won't' and looked down at the ground."

Dursi said he had helped Calley and Meadlo shove people into the ditch.

When he didn't join in the firing, Dursi said, "Calley came to me and told me to get across the ditch before I got sick." Later, he testified that Calley's tone was sympathetic.

Bond Issue, Dress Code Accepted By City Board

Residents of the Circleville City School District will be presented an estimated four-fifths mill bond issue on the May primary ballot.

A unanimous vote by the Board of Education during their regular meeting Tuesday evening decided the issue would go before the citizens in the spring election. A new dress policy and a revised school lunch program were also adopted at the session.

Actual millage on the bond issue is .791 per year. Monies received will be used to build additional rooms onto Nicholas Drive Elementary and the high school building to eliminate crowded conditions in those areas.

Nearly 100 new students are expected to be taken into Circleville High School in 1971-72 school year, primarily students from the junior high. The addition on Nicholas Drive school is expected to alleviate some of the overcrowded conditions in that area and at Atwater School. The northern area is the fastest growing area in the city.

Superintendent Fritz Jacobs reported, Citywide, nearly 180 more students are enrolled in elementary schools annually and most of these are living in the Atwater and Nicholas Drive areas.

Extra money brought in by the bond issue will be used to rehabilitate other school buildings in the district.

A considerable amount of time and study taken by students, faculty and administrative members of the schools has resulted in a change in dress policy on a probationary basis in the city school system.

UNDER the new policy, girls will be permitted to wear slacks and slacks suits to school. Restrictions were made to shorts on slacks of denim material, jean cut, fringed, patched or bleached. The reformation of dress rules was made general with the hopes that students would accept the good image of the student body at the schools. If it is upheld the students will be given freedom in retaining more individuality which they have been seeking.

Other charges include permission for boys to wear sandals without socks and rewording the clause concerning girls' dress length to that which is acceptable rather than the four inch above the knee policy

Pentagon Denies Fulbright Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has denied an allegation by Sen. J.W. Fulbright that the United States knew there were no American prisoners at the Son Tay prisoner of war camp in North Vietnam.

Spokesman Jerry W. Freidheim says the goal of the raid was to get American prisoners out of North Vietnam, there were no "other purposes," as Sen. Fulbright earlier Tuesday stated there were.

Fulbright did not expand on his contention, but said comments by administration officials and members of the Army and Air Force raiding party "indicated officials knew there were no prisoners there, and that the mission had other purposes."

previously held. The remainder of the dress code remains basically unaltered. Haircuts on boys and girls are to be respectable. Sideburns will be permitted to the ear lobe on boys. T-shirts or sweat shirts must be of the port shirt variety. None will be permitted with numbering, large lettering or illustrations.

Parents will receive along with their child's report card today a full explanation of the new school lunch program which will go into effect following the holiday vacation.

Under the new system, all families finding it difficult to pay the full 35 cents for their children's lunches will be provided free or reduced price lunches. Certain guidelines will be followed to determine family eligibility based upon income, unexpected illness or injury causing loss of income, unusual expenses due to a natural disaster such as fire or flood and accident or serious illness to any family member, seasonal unemployment or other emergency situations.

Funding will be provided by special federal aid. There will be no price increase for regular students.

Proper forms and a full explanation will be distributed to all families by the school.

IN the board's general business, two resignations were accepted from non-certificated employees. New Interior Chief Committed To SST

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's choice to take over the Interior Department has apparently committed himself to support the supersonic transport plane, which detractors say will be an ecological disaster.

Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton, R-Md., voted with the Nixon administration and the majority of the House Tuesday in refusing to support the Senate's action last week deleting money from the controversial project.

U.N. Condemns Portuguese Act

Nation Blamed For Guinean War

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Overriding Western objections, the U.N. Security Council condemned Portugal Tuesday night for the invasion of Guinea and rapped Lisbon's partners in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The resolution, put in by the council's two Asian and three African members, was approved by a vote of 11-0 with four abstentions. The abstainers were the United States, Britain, France and Spain, but none of the three NATO members used its veto to kill the resolution.

The Western powers objected to provisions of the resolution that threatened sanctions against Portugal and called on countries to refrain from giving Lisbon any military assistance "enabling it to continue its repressive actions" against Africa. The latter clause was plainly aimed at members of NATO.

The resolution also called for compensation to Guinea for the "extensive damage to life and property" that resulted from the invasion of the West African state last month.

Portugal has denied any part in the invasion and has rejected the conclusions of a five-nation U.N. mission to Guinea, which Portugal says took testimony from a handful of prisoners produced by Guinean authorities.

The mission concluded that Portuguese troops were used in the invasion, and it condemned Portugal for the attack.

In an effort to avoid running into a veto, the sponsors of the resolution had kept the council members informed step by step as they worked up the proposal.

U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost hailed the report of the U.N. mission to Guinea and praised the sponsors of the resolution: Burundi, Nepal, Sierra Leone, Syria and Zambia. But he made plain that he thought the draft went too far in dangling the threat of sanctions and even military force against Portugal.

Yost was also quick to counter the oblique reference to Portugal's NATO partners in the draft.

Union Chief Wants Wage Hike Included

By NEIL GILBRIDE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Commerce Committee approved today a bill to delay a nationwide railroad strike threatened for 12:01 a.m. Thursday until March 1. The vote was 19 to 14.

But Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va., said after the closed door session that he was not satisfied that the legislation would prevent the strike.

And Rep. Brock Adams, D-Wash., told reporters: "I think we have voted for a strike. You're just giving it to management. They aren't going to bargain."

The bill contained no wage raise proposal.

Staggers said the proposal, which represented a longer delay than the 45 days requested by President Nixon, presumably will be brought up in the House later today.

Staggers said the committee rejected an amendment he sponsored to include a portion of the pay increase already granted as part of the package. His attempt, which will be made again when the bill reaches the House floor, was rejected 16 to 14.

Meanwhile, C. L. Dennis, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, hinted that the walkout could be postponed if Congress included an immediate 13.5 percent wage hike for 500,000 rail workers as part of legislation forcing a strike delay.

Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson, appealing for special legislation to head off the strike, told the Senate Labor Committee that President Nixon "has no more tools to avert" a walkout.

Dennis said the nearly 500,000 rail workers involved, who now average from $3.45 to $3.60 per hour, hadn't had a wage hike in more than a year and couldn't be expected to wait any longer after exhausting delaying procedures in current labor law over that period.

Secretary of Transportation John Volpe told newsmen, in answer to a question, that the government would consider using Army troops to run the trains if there was a strike.

This would be the first time troops operated the railroads since the post-World War II era more than 20 years ago. But the White House and Defense Department said no such preparations were under way.

The crisis appeared the gravest of numerous nationwide rail strike threats in recent years. There have been only two brief coast-to-coast rail walkouts in the past half century. Congress has barred several others with special laws.

Volpe said the nation's unemployment rate was 7.2 percent.

2 Students Sue For Readmission

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two young men are seeking a court order to permit them to be reinstated at the University of Cincinnati where one was expelled in October and the other denied readmission.

Counsel for James Finger and Jack Reinbach, both of Cincinnati, asked for the order Tuesday in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court against Dr. Walter Langsam, UC president. The two want an injunction to prevent Langsam from "interfering with their right to pursue their education at UC."

Finger was dismissed and Reinbach denied readmission because of their participation in a number of campus disruptions over the past 18 months, Langsam said.

Oil Wells Still Blaze Off Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The task of controlling the worst fire in the history of the oil industry was complicated today by heat coming from the off-shore blaze.

Shell Oil Co. has been drilling three relief wells near its platform 10 miles off the coast where an explosion touched off the fire Dec. 1.

Intense heat from the fire prevented placement of a platform for use by the crew that eventually will bring the wild wells under control.

A fourth movable rig was on the way to drill another relief hole.

A body was found Tuesday in the Gulf of Mexico about four miles from the burning platform. Gary Cole of Krotz Springs has been listed as missing since the explosion.

Three other men died of injuries in the explosion and fire and more than a dozen of the 60 men on the platform still are hospitalized.

Special School Levy Balloting Goes Badly Across State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Voters requested most school money requests put before them in special elections around Ohio Tuesday.

In Ashtabula, where officials had said school might have to be closed down if more money were not provided, voters defeated for the third time a levy that would have raised $1,145,70 for salaries and to restore some service cutbacks.

School levies in six southwestern Ohio school districts, including the 13,000 pupil Northwest Local in Hamilton County, also lost.

The 6.8 mill levy in the North-west district met defeat by only 102 votes — 5,398 — 5,296, while in the Nov. 3 general election the levy was turned down by nearly 2,800 votes.

All the other levies also were voted down Nov. 3.

In Butler County, a levy of 8.3 mills in Fairfield was defeated 1,177 to 2,529.

A 4.5 mill levy in the Oxford-Talawanda School District in Butler County was beaten by nearly a two - one margin. The final figure was not available. Voters in Batavia in Clermont County voted down a 2.8 mill levy 253 to 299.

In Brown County, a levy of 9.8 mills in Hamersville went down 221 to 442 and in Mount Orab the count against a 6 mill levy was 463 to 832.

In the Dayton suburb of Kettering, voters rejected a 3.9 mill additional operating levy by only 67 votes, 6,270 to 6,337.

Centerville voters turned down a similar 5.75 mill levy 2,546 to 3,501.

A 3 mill levy in the Miami East School District in Miami County was approved by six votes, 764 to 698. It had previously been defeated by nine votes.

A four mill levy for the Preble Shawnee School District in Preble County passed 606 to 564.

By a 700 to 819 vote, a 6.3 mill levy was turned down in Northridge in Montgomery County.

A 2.6 mill bond issue in Madison Township was defeated for the sixth time, this time 1,090 to 1,905.

In Lorain County, two issues failed, but two others in the city of Avon passed.

Voters in the Lorain Clearview District voted 568 to 454 against a 5-mill additional operating levy, and voters in the Columbia District voted 576 to 403 against a 4.8 mill additional levy. In Avon, voters approved a 3.5-mill additional levy 749-675 and an 8-mill renewal levy by 1,039 to 551.

In Trumbull County, voters turned down three issues. Hubbard voters rejected a 4-mill additional levy 1,465 to 992, Champion voters turned down a 5-mill additional levy 1,119 to 562 and Newton Falls voters defeated a 12-mill additional levy 1,532 to 710.

A 9.5-mill additional levy for Ashtabula City Schools was rejected 4,147 to 2,134.

The school board had warned pilotment rate, already at 5.8 per cent for the highest level in 7½ years, would soar to 8.4 per cent by the second week of a nationwide rail walkout.

In another indication of potential strike impact, the Post Office said it would impose a 300-mile limit on the mailing of packages, publications and advertising during a walkout, and in Detroit, spokesmen for Ford, Chrysler and General Motors said a rail shutdown would halt the shipment of parts and close auto assembly lines within a week.

Dennis, accusing Nixon of siding with the railroad industry in asking Congress to order a strike delay, said his union would risk jail terms and fines to defy a congressional ban.

Chief rail negotiator John P. Hiltz, however, urged heavy fines as part of any legislation to halt the strike.

He said the railroad industry is financially troubled and that a strike could be a fatal blow to several of them, including the fiscally beset Penn Central. He also said a strike could aggravate the nation's shortage of coal.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, speaking in behalf of some 13.6 million union members, urged Congress to reject Nixon's request to order a strike delay.

"There is no justification for forcing workers to labor against their will for the private profit of employers," Meany said in a statement. He said if the rails are so vital to the economy that workers are denied the right to strike, the government should nationalize them.

Dennis' union and three others involved in the rail dispute are affiliated with the labor federation.

OUR Letters to Santa Claus campaign is gaining notice all over the area... Several letters received by the Herald Staff have been simply addressed to the North Pole and have been directed here by the alert postal staff in support of our program... One letter from a young lady asking for a number of items from Santa's workshop as well as her two front teeth, arrived totally without an address or stamp, but with a note marked lightly in the top right corner "to North Pole."

Brazilians Split Over Kidnaping

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Sentiment is increasing in Brazil's military government against making concessions to the kidnapers of Swiss Ambassador Giovanni Bucher.

Authoritative sources say a growing hard-line faction feels that if the government gives in every time there is a political kidnaping, there will be a spiral of abductions.

$24 Bonds Forfeited

Inez Irene Smith, Washington, and Catherine L. Willison, Dayton, both forfeited $24 bonds in Circleville Municipal Court. The two women were charged with fighting and disorderly conduct in the Green Lantern.

The Logan Elm board had requested a reduction of 1.5 mills in the rate. However, due to the state of Ohio requiring new and changed forms for the "resolution accepting the rates as determined by the budget commission" no reduction could be made.

The county treasurer has already prepared the tax statements for Pickaway, Salter Creek and Washington Twp.

"A majority of the budget commission felt the requested reduction of 1.5 mills would not relieve the pressure from the taxpayer enough to warrant all the extra work and expense involved by the county treasurer," Henn reported.

However, the budget commission felt that a 4 mill reduction in bond retirement in 1972 will be possible, based on the anticipated valuation and balance next year.

Monies from bond retirement fund cannot be used for operating purposes, therefore the need for additional operating millage is still needed and will be considered by the Board of Education in the spring.

Thelma Trimmer, clerk, presented the financial report after which the date of Dec. 28 was established for a special meeting to study end of year financial transactions.

Board action was taken to file an application for participation in P.L. 874 federal funds and to designate Mr. Noble Branham as the authorized representative for the school district.

In other board business the resignation from Tom Kyle, Washington School bus driver was given the nod of approval. Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises will be held on the same date, Sunday, May 30, 1971 if so decided by vote of the senior class. The electric appliances in the Home Economics department, electric range, washer and dryer are now on sale.

Approval was granted to organize a dramatic club and a "Varsity" letter club at the high school. All board members, Wesley Graves, Jr., Roger Hobbie, Mrs. Carolyn McCoy, Don Bower and Charles Jones were present for the December meeting.

that schools might have to be closed if the levy was defeated again.

In Cuyahoga County, Westlake voters passed a 5.8-mill added levy by 1,939 to 1,791. Brecksville voters rejected a 7.5-mill added levy 2,283 to 2,123 and Maple Heights voters turned down a 3-mill added levy 2,541 to 1,987.

In Summit County, Twinsburg voters rejected a 6.7-mill added levy, 774 to 550.

Mount Vernon voters rejected for a third time, 3,257-2,491, a 4.5 mill additional levy. Also in Knox County, a 3-mill levy in Fredericktown School District lost 760-564.

In Licking County's Johnstown-Monroe District, voters approved 488 to 462 a 6-mill additional school operating levy. It had been put on the ballot.

Voters in the Riverdale School District of Hardin, Wyandot and Hancock counties defeated a 4.5-mill additional levy by a vote of 769-747.

In Bluffton, a proposed additional 7 mills was denied 636-498.

London voters turned down a 6-mill additional levy by a vote of 1,288-618.

The Xenia City School District was denied, 2,695-1,543, an additional 6.2 mills.

Voters in Norton in Summit County approved a 5-mill additional levy by 1,618 to 1,356. It had been rejected twice before.

Votes on levies in two school districts near Ravenna split, with Waterloo District voters approving by 837 to 816 a 7-mill operating levy after having voted down five previous proposed levies, and voters in the Crestwood District rejecting a 5.5-mill additional levy, 964 to 795.

In Cleveland Heights-University Heights, a 8.9 mill added levy was defeated 8,274 to 6,398, and in North Olmsted in Cuyahoga County, a 7.75-mill added levy was defeated 3,702 to 3,448.

In Portage County, Crestwood voters defeated a 5.5-mill added levy, 1,099 to 823.

In Summit County, Streetsboro voters rejected a 4.4-mill added levy, 579 to 327.

Voters in the Margaretta School District in Castalia, Erie County, defeated a 7-mill additional levy, 788 to 565.

In the Columbus area, three issues were defeated. A combination renewal - new levy in the Madison Local District failed, 1,269 to 1,101; a 6.8-mill levy in the Southwestern District was defeated 4,240 to 3,867, and voters in the Westerville District turned down a 6.9 mill issue 2,508 to 2,232.

A tie vote dropped up in balloting in the Mendon-Union School District in Mercer County, where citizens were asked to decide on a 4.8-mill operating levy. The vote was 247 for and 247 against, and School Supt. Gay Mills said the vote meant defeat of the levy. He said the possibility of a recount was being considered.

The Mansfield City School District defeated a 6.4-mill levy by a vote of 4,721 to 4,361. School officials there had said a defeat would probably mean a two-month delay in opening school next fall unless some other means of financing is found.

In Crawford County, Bucyrus voters defeated a five-mill levy for current operating expenses 1,754 to 579 and some curtailment of the 1971-72 school term was seen. In Gallon, a 5.4-mill levy for current operating expenses was defeated 2,414 to 1,566.

Clubs Hear Talk On Student Exchange Program

A special informative meeting on a student exchange project was held Monday evening at Circleville High School.

Representatives from several community agencies — Kiwanis, Child Conservation League, Junior Womens Club, American Legion, Ministerial Association, Jaycees and the Chamber of Commerce — were on hand to hear the area representative, Mrs. William P. Dulin, speak on the Youth for Understanding Exchange Program.

Mrs. Dulin, of Columbus, presented the basic needs of such a program, emphasizing the importance of selection of a host family and organization of a community council. This council is considered a necessary part of the project. It will consist of members of local clubs, the schools, and students and private citizens.

Several different exchange programs are offered by the YFU in which students from foreign countries will spend from six months to a year in the local community and Circleville students can spend a summer or a year after graduation with a family overseas.

Plans for the program, which was begun by the student council are still tentative. If time allows and the community shows its support, arrangements might be made for a Latin American student to visit Circleville as early as January.

LAFB Man Fined $150

Corwin Elementary. Substitute custodians seeking part time work were Roy E. Wolford, Robert Hartley and Clarence Tomlinson. Lloyd E. Hill was accepted by the board as substitute bus driver.

Members also made special consideration for experienced bus drivers in the local district who accept substitute driving assignments. Those with more than one year's experience, with the city schools employed for several consecutive days will receive $10 per day rather than the regular rate of $7.50 offered now.

Mrs. Saely Helwag and Mrs. Martha H. Pendasulo were accepted as additions to the substitute teachers listing in the elementary area.

The Board approved the purchase of a new check protector for the clerk at the cost of $225 rather than repair the one used by the school, which is 23 years old. Repairs, due to lack of parts, would be costly.

Present at the session were Jacobs, Board President R. L. Brehmer Jr., Ruth Crist, Tom Elsen, Dan DeLong, and Forrest Brown.

Three Laws Of Ecology

There are three laws of ecology, according to Dr. Barry Commoner, director of the Center for the Biology of Natural Systems, Washington University, St. Louis. They are:

Everything is connected with everything else.

Everything goes somewhere.

There is no such thing as a free lunch. If all consumers, communities, business, industry, farmers — individually or collectively — could keep these three points in mind, it might help with the choices that must be made in order to improve the ecology. The laws are quoted in an article, "Our Ecological Crisis," in the December issue of National Geographic, which spells out the widespread adverse effect "civilization" is having upon the world.

Take the third law. There is nothing we can do to make life easier or more comfortable, that doesn't have some effect upon our environment. What we must decide is, is it worth it? Can we live with this effect or should we choose another option?

We must remember there is no free lunch.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "We are all the good Lord's property," said Joe Hydrusko, 51, who won a Navy Cross for heroism at Pearl Harbor. "He can help us, hurt us, or take us at His own will."

The most memorable hours of his life began for Hydrusko when the Japanese attacked American military bases at Honolulu 29 years ago Monday morning.

Joe, then the Navy's light heavyweight boxing champion in the Southwest Pacific, was painting a gig on a hospital ship, the Solace, when the enemy struck. He immediately asked and received permission to take a motor launch and pick up casualties.

"It was a nightmare then—it's more like a fading dream now," he said.

"We first picked up one boatload from the battleship Nevada and two boatloads from the battleship West Virginia and brought them to the hospital ship."

"Most of them were burned from the waist up and some had bubbles dripping from their noses from lung burns. I went at top speed, and some of the men cursed me because the wind made their raw skin hurt almost unbearably."

Hydrusko and other volunteers then sped to the battleship Oklahoma.

"It had been hit by six torpedoes, capsized and turned turtle in 12 minutes. We could hear tapping sounds by some of the 420 men trapped inside her. They were like flies caught under a big glass."

With the aid of Julio De Castro, a civilian Navy yard worker now retired and living in Honolulu, Joe set about trying to rescue as many of his fellow sailors as possible.

Guided to survivors by their tapping sounds, Joe and De Castro cut through metal protective h'sters on the ship's hull to reach small groups of the trapped men.

"Julio cut through the ship's hull with an air hammer," said Joe. "I crawled in and pulled out the survivors. Most of them were naked. They had used their clothing to stop leaks."

"Sometimes the tapping stopped while we were trying to get to the men. They had died—either by drowning or from the fumes of burning cork-lined bulkheads."

"There were a lot of brave boys there. In a split second we had been turned from playboys into angry men of war."

Hydrusko, the son of Polish immigrants, retired from the Navy as a chief bosun's mate in 1945. After working as a telephone lineman and repairman, Joe and his wife, Helen, bought a restaurant in Massapequa on Long Island.

It has prospered, and Joe's hobbies are flying airplanes and racing sport cars. His license number is "S-O-S-7," in memory of Pearl Harbor.

"My experiences there taught me to try to pack every day of my life with happiness and pleasure," he said. "You should make use of your prime now, because it won't be there."

Laff-A-Day

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A YOUNG man in the New York headquarters of a colossal conglomerate is gratified but puzzled by his nomination as general manager in charge of collecting data on the number of rubber bands used each day. "Maybe I owe it to those new spiked golf shoes I was breaking in at the office one Friday morning," he reasons. "Since I stepped on my computer card with them, I've been promoted four times!"

From a plaque found in Old Saint Paul's Church, Baltimore, dated 1692:

"Go placidly amid the noise and haste, and remember what peace there may be in silence. As far as possible without surrender, be on good terms with all persons. Speak your truth quietly and clearly—and listen to others, even the dull and ignorant; they too have their story. If you compare yourself with others, you may become vain or bitter, for always there will be greater and lesser persons than yourself."

"In the noisy confusion of life, keep peace with your soul. With all its shams, drudgery, and broken dreams, it is still a beautiful world."

There's a motel in the Blue Ridge Mountains called the Mood (the proprietor's name, if you must know). This gives an average of fourteen tourists a day the opportunity to send cards to friends back home reading, "I'm in the Mood for love."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I read that white bread is not nutritious. Since it is so expensive and valueless, what is the point of eating it?

Mrs. H. P. P. P. Wis. Dear Mrs. P.: For many years, food scientists have called attention to the fact that white bread is deficient in nutritional value.

Fortunately, white bread is rarely eaten alone and therefore its nutritional deficiency is overcome by the foods eaten with it.

Most so-called enriched white breads, however, have some small amounts of vitamin and minerals. These, however, are not adequate to compensate for the general lack of significant nutritional value of white breads.

A recent extensive study made by Dr. Roger J. Williams, an expert in nutrition at the University of Texas, concluded, "That commercial bread is so deficient in nutritive value as to be almost worthless."

Dr. Williams believes that bread so commonly used and enjoyed, can be made a valuable asset to good nutrition.

I am 68 years old and for the past few years, I have been feeling a sense of shortness of breath. I find it gets worse when I walk rapidly. Can this be explained?

Mr. R. T. Vt. Dear Mr. T.: Dyspnea, or shortness of breath, most certainly can be explained. The explanation for such difficulty in breathing demands a careful examination of the heart, the lungs, and the circulatory system.

Shortness of breath is a symptom of disease rather than a disease itself. I will list only a few of the possibilities of its cause, only to show you and other readers how misguided it is to read a newspaper column or magazine articles about health, and then, in anxiety, say, "That's exactly what I have."

The chances are that you will be entirely wrong if you blindly pick one cause.

A shortness of breath can be brought on by any disturbance in the lungs that causes insufficient oxygen in the blood, severe anemia, excessive carbon dioxide, unusual physical activity, emotional excitement, obesity, asthma, chronic heart conditions, air pollution, and neurological

Matter Of Patience

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

It's positively heart-wrenching to read the complaints of the young about the November elections. They are saying the events of 1970 have proved that they can't win inside the system. And all because they lost a few of their bigger heroes, Senator Goodell and Representative Allard Lowenstein in New York, Senatorial candidate Joe Duffey in Connecticut, Senator Tydings in Maryland and Senator Gore in Tennessee. Having failed last spring to win outside the system, when they tried by protests and burnings to abort the move that resulted in our Cambodian victory, many of the young now have the feeling that they are utterly powerless.

Their feeling speaks volumes about their inability to understand the conditions of life anywhere and everywhere on the globe. The letters the young write to the newspapers are the most damning sort of proof that they are being misled by their history professors.

The one thing history tells us is that forcible social change demands infinite patience and the most minute sort of preparation. In 1970 an astounded nation woke up to the fact that New York State has elected a Conservative Party nominee, James Buckley, to the U.S. Senate. How this was accomplished should be a lesson to the very young. It took more than ten years of perseverance to put Jim Buckley over.

The two dedicated souls who created the New York Conservative Party are a pair of New York City lawyers, Kieran O'Doherty and J. Daniel Mahoney. With Dan Mahoney the urge to play a conservative role in politics dates back to 1951, when he represented St. Bonaventure University at a convention of the National Students Association. Being young and green at the time, Dan thought it curious that the agenda of the meeting called for a condemnation of all sorts of Right-of-Center movements both in the U.S. and elsewhere but said nothing about the international Communist movement. Dan recalls that Allard Lowenstein was in the chair when his effort to put Communism on the agenda along with Fascist excesses was ruled out of order.

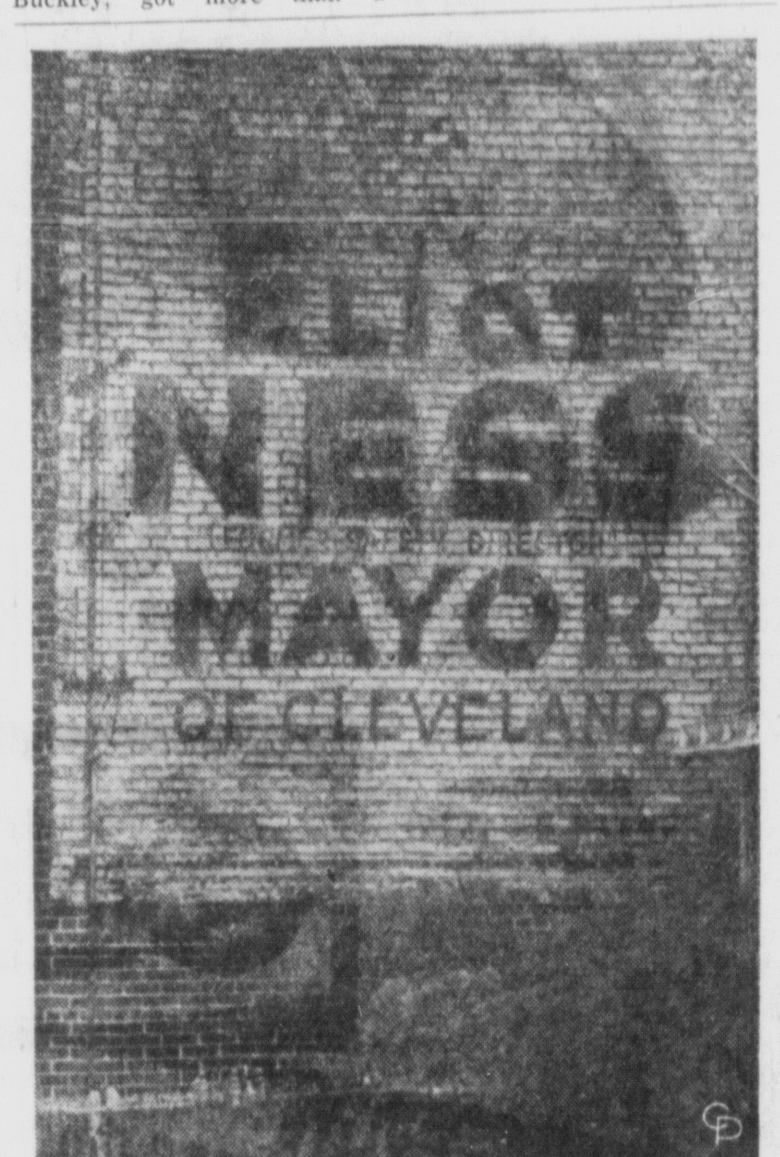

One point for the young impatient to meditate upon is that it took Allard Lowenstein himself from 1951 to 1968 to make his dent nationally, with the "Dump Lyndon Johnson" movement that resulted in the Eugene McCarthy campaign. Lowenstein won a seat in the House of Representatives that year, even though McCarthy failed to get the Democratic Presidential nomination.

While Lowenstein was struggling upward in Leftist politics, his adversary at the 1951 NSA convention was busy getting a law school degree and serving in the armed forces. In 1958, Dan Mahoney, with his friend Kieran O'Doherty, took part in the luncheon meetings held by Dan Buckley (no relation of Senator Jim or editor Bill Buckley) at the Garden City Hotel on Long Island, where they listened to conservative theoreticians such as Brent Bozell and a right-wing politico named Barry Goldwater.

Kieran and Dan speculated on the possibility of forming a conservative party then, but it wasn't until after the so-called Treaty of Fifth Avenue in 1960, when the Republican Presidential aspirant Richard Nixon had to make a special "liberal" peace with New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller in order to keep unity in New York State (whose electoral vote Nixon lost anyway), that the brash young men decided to go for broke. Their reasoning was that if the Liberal Party in New York State could force the Democrats to take liberal candidates and platforms, a Conservative Party might someday compel the New York Republicans to send somebody besides Javits to the U.S. Senate, and to push Governor Rockefeller, who always knows the political time of day, in center-right direction in his conduct of party affairs inside the state.

The Conservatives fielded their first candidates in 1962. Later on, with editor Bill Buckley carrying their flag in a New York City election, they made Mayor John Lindsay mighty uncomfortable. In 1968 their senatorial nominee, Jim Buckley, got more than a revolution.

SPEAKING OF POLLUTION, politicians contribute optically by not removing their campaign signs, as this one from Eliot Ness' unsuccessful mayoral campaign in Cleveland in 1947 testifies. It's on Cleveland's east side. The hero of "The Untouchables" should be touched.

A Christmas Story The Miracle at Derrick, Texas

by Luise Putcamp, Jr.

Synopsis: The orphans don't know that the big men of Derrick, Texas are plotting to get rid of the Orphanage. The orphans are busy making Christmas presents for each other and talking about what they'll sing in the town's yearly carol festival. Then little Peggy asks: "What's a miracle?"

CHAPTER III THE PUZZLE

WHEN Tom finally answered, the words came out slowly and carefully.

"A miracle is something very wonderful," he said. "It happens only once in a long, long time. Nobody can explain how."

"But what makes the miracle happen?" pressed little Peggy.

"God does," said Tom solemnly.

It was very still while their thoughts reached out around the idea of God and miracles. Then Peggy spoke again, in a very little voice.

"Has a miracle ever happened right here in Derrick, Texas?"

Tom laughed, then, and looked out the window. They looked, too, at the dust and the mesquite bushes and the oil wells that Mister Gus Derek owned.

Everything was the color of dust, even the sky and the far-away hills.

"I guess Derrick, Texas, is the last place in the world for a miracle to happen," he said.

"But why couldn't one happen here?" persisted Peggy. "It sounds nice."

Tom just rumbled her hair. "It would be a miracle if we won the prize at the carol festival this year," he said.

Near-sighted Doty spoke up. "I heard Mrs. Motherwell say the Orphanage has never won the prize, not in all the fifteen years Mister Derek has been giving it."

"And this year it's ten thousand dollars," reminded Joe.

"Mister Derek must own an awful lot of oil wells," said Ann.

"And he must like Christmas carols an awful lot," said Peggy. "I just wish the judges would like our Christmas carol," said Joe. "Just one time."

"Mrs. Motherwell says the money isn't the important thing," said Doty primly. "Why not?" asked Joe.

"I don't know. It's just something she says."

"But the carol festival is fun," said Peggy, her eyes shiny. "It just wouldn't be Christmas without practicing our carol. It goes with the paper chains and the tin can stars, and making presents for each other, and —"

"Why do we always sing O Come, All Ye Faithful?" asked Ann.

"It's a tradition," said Tom wisely.

"What's a tradition?" asked Peggy. "Is it anything like a miracle?"

"It's a thing you do," he said, "like having a Christmas tree," or —

But Peggy wasn't really listening. Another question was bothering her more.

"Why does Mrs. Motherwell look so worried lately?" asked Peggy. "And Miss Princh, too?"

The orphans looked at each other, and everyone could tell that everyone else had been noticing it, too.

"Do you suppose they're worried about Christopher, the new boy?" Doty lowered her voice and squinted at the corner as she said it.

But Christopher wasn't there. He was a thin little boy with big sad eyes that never looked at you. He never smiled, either, but mostly sat on a little stool in the corner.

"He's been here ten whole days and he hasn't said anything to anybody!" said Peggy.

"And he never plays with anybody," observed Joe. "Even when they ask him to."

"Where did he come from, anyway?" asked Ann impatiently. "What's he doing here?"

"Where did any of us come from?" asked Tom gently. "Why are we here?"

They thought about it for a minute.

"Well, I heard Mrs. Motherwell say to Miss Princh," said Doty, "that Christopher came from the oil fields."

"Out where all the derricks are?" said Peggy.

"I didn't know they had children out there," said Ann. "Just funny machines and men with tin hats and big boots."

"I heard her say it," insisted Doty. "The night Christopher came here."

NEXT: Christopher.

Douglas Drops Out Of Cases Coming Before High Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice William O. Douglas dropped out of three more Supreme Court cases Monday, a step he has taken frequently since becoming the target of an impeachment effort by some House members.

In each instance Douglas and his office gave no reason and declined to discuss his self-exclusion with a newsmen.

Douglas has ruled himself out of several cases in recent weeks, primarily those dealing with obscenity, but none of the three cases Monday dealt in that area.

In one case the court is considering libel suits brought by private individuals against the press. Douglas did not indicate in advance he was dropping out and he simply stayed away Monday.

The second case involved a dispute over a proposed highway through a park in Memphis, Tenn. Douglas sat through the arguments Monday, but at the end of the day when a new round of arguments was announced for Jan. 11, the court said Douglas would not participate.

Ohio Tax Revenues Hit $415.1 Million

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Auditor Roger Cloud reported Tuesday that tax revenues going to Ohio's general fund in the first five months of fiscal 1971 totaled $415.1 million, an increase of $13.8 million or 3.45 per cent over receipts of the same period last year.

Cloud said two tax sources recorded declines, sales tax receipts dropping $4,661,580 to a total of $263,429,794, and corporation franchise tax collections amounting to $3,817,676, a decline of $385,981. The greatest increase was in revenues from the cigarette tax, $48,848,505, a jump of $5.5 million over last year.

The third instance of Douglas excluding himself surfaced as the court announced it would not reconsider a Massachusetts ban on the commercial showing of "Titticut Follies," a documentary film made in a state mental hospital. The state had banned the film because it allegedly invaded the privacy of patients.

Douglas had participated in earlier consideration of the case, but Monday he did not vote on whether to reconsider the suit against Massachusetts.

A reprint in Evergreen Magazine of part of Douglas' book, "Points of Rebellion," has been cited by some congressional critics seeking his impeachment.

However, in at least two of the obscenity cases before the court in which Douglas excluded himself, neither the magazine nor its publishers, Grove Press, are involved.

The House subcommittee investigating Douglas reported last week that it had found no legal grounds for impeaching the justice, but his critics are expected to continue their fight.

Justices customarily do not explain why they do not participate in a case.

Heavy Load

LONDON (AP) — A conqueror tank from the Second World War weighing almost 150,000 pounds was moved from the Imperial War Museum to a storage depot in Essex.

Although the usual route is only 11 miles, the transporter had to make a 50-mile detour to find bridges which could accommodate the tank's weight.

Bigger Utility Bill Is Price Of Clean Air

Editor's Note: One price for a cleaner atmosphere, consumers are learning, is a bigger utility bill. This article, the third in a series from the AP Special Assignment Team, details the death of an era of cheap power.

By JEAN HELLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The era of cheap power is over.

It died in 1970, the year that brought unexpectedly heavy demands for power, strict new air pollution laws which require electric utilities to burn only low-polluting fuels, and a serious shortage of fuels that fit the new requirements.

The result has been skyrocketing fuel prices which precipitated widespread electric utility rate increases and promise more to come. However, there is wide agreement between government and industry sources that the situation probably was inevitable and is the price the United States must pay to end pollution.

An Associated Press study of the nation's energy crisis has found:

—Government figures indicate that electrical generating plants using fossil fuels, principally coal and fuel oil, account for 50 per cent of all sulphur oxide polluting the air, 25 per cent of the nitrogen oxide pollution and 25 per cent of the particulate matter, the grit that blackens window sills, dulls paint and erodes masonry.

—New air pollution laws have widely forbidden use of dirty fuels and put a strain on supplies of clean fuels. The shortages have increased prices and, in turn, utility rates.

—The one clean fossil fuel, natural gas, is in short supply because government regulation of price rates have, in recent years, not permitted gas producers enough profit to enable exploration for new gas supplies. There is not currently enough available natural gas to fill the fossil fuel gap.

—Nuclear energy, once thought to be the panacea for the nation's future power needs, has fallen short of expectation. Nuclear generating plants seep small amounts of radiation and emit so much heat they could possibly alter the environment around them.

—The need to clean up the nation's air and water and keep them clean is considered at the present time by those in authority to be more urgent than keeping down the price of electricity. Consequently, the conditions which raised electric utility rates are likely to remain indefinitely.

New federal, state and municipal air pollution standards restrict the discharge of sulphur dioxide in urban areas. Current standards call for the burning of fuels with no more than 1 per cent sulphur content. In some areas, local ordinances will drop the allowable sulphur level to .3 per cent next year. Most of the coal mined in the United States cannot meet these standards.

For fossil-fuel burning plants, the only other fuels available are fuel oil and natural gas. But fuel oil is an unrefined state also has a high sulphur content. The cost of cleaning the sulphur out of coal and fuel oil is high. An alternative is to clean the sulphur out of stack gases after the high-sulphur fuel is burned but before the pollutants get into the air. This, too, is expensive.

To reduce fuel oil sulphur from 2.5 to .5 per cent cost an estimated 50 to 70 cents a barrel. Reducing sulphur in coal from 3 to 1.5 per cent would run 50 to 75 cents a ton, and to get the sulphur content down to .5 per cent could cost as high as $3 a ton. Scrubbing coal stack gases of 90 per cent of their sulphur oxide would cost between $1 and $2 for every ton of coal burned.

Ultimately, the electricity consumer will foot most, if not all, of the bill.

Natural gas, the cleanest of the fossil fuels, has no sulphur problem. Many utility companies have converted to gas, creating a giant gas demand which further tightened a supply already short due to the decline in exploration for new gas fields.

The crimp in the supply of clean fuels probably will get worse when the sulphur restrictions become effective for rural areas and when proposed new laws restrict the discharge of nitrogen oxides, carbon monoxide and particulate matter.

Nuclear powered electrical generating plants also are taking flak from conservationists. Once touted as the one true clean way to generate power, it since has been determined that nuclear plants seep some small doses of radiation. There is little evidence that the leakage is sufficient to present any immediate danger, but radiation doses are cumulative and could possibly have long-term effects.

Westinghouse Electric Corp., one of the chief manufacturers of nuclear power plants, recently announced the capability to build a leakproof generating station, but such construction would increase the cost of the already expensive plants.

Another major problem encountered by the nuclear plants is heat. All electrical plants require water to keep their generating cores cool. Nuclear plants require almost 50 per cent more water than fossil-fueled plants, principally because nuclear stations have no smoke stacks to carry off heat.

Before being dumped back into a lake or stream, the water used in the process is heated to 15 degrees by fossil-fueled plants and 20 degrees by nuclear plants. It is estimated that within the next decade, the electric power industry will require one-sixth of the total fresh water runoff in the nation for cooling purposes.

The danger of sending so much superheated water back into lakes and streams still is being debated. Over a period of time, some scientists feel, the constant discharge of the hot water could raise the temperature of a lake or a stream enough to alter the ecology of the area, wiping out whatever species of life normally lived there.

An alternative to dumping superheated water in lakes and rivers is the use of cooling towers that can evaporate 10 to 20 million gallons of water a day. In some weather, such towers can produce local fogging and icing conditions, but those problems are not considered serious.

One thing is certain: Solving the nation's energy and pollution problems will require acceptance of new procedures, costing money that electric utilities previously have been reluctant to spend.

In 1968, FPC figures show, electric utility companies spent $38 million on research and development—less than one quarter of 1 per cent of their operating revenues.

There was, according to industry spokesmen, good reason for the low level of research. Rates charged by electric utilities involved in interstate operation were set by the FPC and did not allow for recovery of such expenses.

Last August, the FPC altered its regulations to permit electric utility companies to pass research costs on to customers by including a portion of the expenditures in the rate base.

Some research already is underway. The TVA, for example, is studying a method of cleaning up coal stack gases. Such research will cost TVA's customers. The utility estimates that by 1990, 25 per cent of the consumers' electric bills will go to cover the cost of environmental cleanup.

But some see a brighter side. "This crisis we're in, well I kind of look at it as a good thing in the long run," said White House aide Freeman. "It's sort of an early warning system. I'm personally encouraged that we're finally going some attention paid to the problem of the quality of life, finally beginning to recognize that there is something more to life than to see how many tons of coal we can mine and burn.

"We can develop a technology that is pollution free. The question is now whether we can do it, whether we are willing to accept the inconveniences and the costs of doing it, before we run out of time."

Tomorrow: Schizophrenic government regulation.

Suit Is Filed Over Obscenity Mailing Case

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Atty. Robert W. Jones has filed a request in U.S. District Court here for an injunction against material being sent to a complaining postal patron.

The complaint, which was made to the postmaster general by Cal H. Quick of Dallas, Tex., is against Ram Enterprises of Mentor.

The material offered photographs, films, devices, gimmicks and information which Quick said he believes to be "erotically arousing or sexually provocative."

Under the "pandering advertisements" statute of 1968, which was upheld last May by the U.S. Supreme Court, a person who has received sexually oriented advertisements may determine himself that it is obscene. He then may direct the post office to have the mailer remove his name from the sender's lists.

Deadly Game Ends In Death For Youth, 16

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jack Decker, 16, of suburban Harrison, Ohio, died at Cincinnati General Hospital late Monday of a gunshot wound in the head sustained while playing "Russian Roulette" at his home.

Harrison Police Sergeant Elmer Bishoff said Decker, a student at William Henry Harrison High School, had been playing cards at home with friends Monday afternoon.

Bishoff said the youth left the room momentarily and returned with a .32 caliber pistol loaded with one bullet and said he would show his friends "a new game."

The witnesses said the youth looked down the barrel of the gun, decided mistakenly that there was no bullet in the chamber, put the gun to his temple and fired.

Distaff Printers

NEW YORK (AP) — Employment of women in the printing and publishing industry increased 39 per cent to 348,000 in 1969 from 250,000 in 1959. A B. Dick Company of Chicago reports. Women also have increased as a percentage of total industry employment, from 23 per cent in 1959 to 32 per cent in 1969. Last year 1.1 million persons were employed in the industry.

Christmas Depress You? Maybe You Have A Neurosis

CHICAGO (AP) — The season to be jolly makes a lot of people sad.

They are suffering from what psychiatrists often call "Christmas neurosis." The holiday makes them feel lonely, sad and depressed.

And in reactions to it, some people may drink too much or engage in extramarital affairs of sexual deviancy, or other activities in which they normally don't engage, psychiatrists have reported.

Dr. George H. Pollack, director-designate of The Institute for Psychoanalysis, says, "At times people do various things to overcome a depressed feeling." In an interview, he cited the reputation for moral looseness at Christmas office parties as an attempt to achieve "pseudo happiness."

The Thanksgiving-Christmas period is a time for family-centered festivities, says Pollack, who has made studies of psychological problems associated with anniversaries, and with reactions to mourning.

"Those who might have various kinds of unfinished business with their family—or who have no family—have a greater tendency at this time to experience loneliness, depression, sadness—a missing of togetherness."

There's no way of estimating how many people feel depressed at Christmas, he said, but for those who do, Dr. Pollack advises "doing some soul searching on their own" to try to determine what is making them unhappy. Being aware of a problem can open up mental associations which help to overcome the problem, he said. The holiday neurosis usually ends after the holiday.

And if a friend or relative has the Christmas blues, it doesn't do any good just to tell him to cheer up, Dr. Pollack said. The person has a reason for his depression. He needs to try to understand why.

Credit Cards To Be Used As Weapons

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Members of the United Church of Christ were urged Monday to turn in their Gulf Oil Corp. credit cards to protest the company's oil investment in Angola, a Portuguese colony in West Africa.

Dr. Charles L. Burns, president of the church's Ohio Conference, claimed money paid by the Pittsburgh corporation to the Portuguese government for development of Angola's petroleum sources is used to suppress an anticolonial liberation movement there.

Angola has suffered sporadic civil strife between rebels and the Portuguese colonial government for more than 11 years.

"The United Church has four missionaries in Angola," Burns said. "Since we believe in self-determination for the Angolians, we feel that the money which Gulf gives Portugal makes the suppression possible."

The company said Monday it had paid the Portuguese government only $13 million in the 12 years of the formal working agreement together.

Burns said the conference recommended further that its members buy stock in Gulf in order that "we may exercise voting power of that stock" to develop "a humane policy in Gulf Oil's African operation."

A spokesman for Gulf Oil said "We neither support nor condemn Portugal for their politics. We don't do any business with any countries that our state department doesn't recognize. Our government is a close ally with Portugal."

The Ohio Conference of the Church of Christ has more than 200,000 members spread throughout Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia.

The Jordan River rises on the slopes of Mount Hermon, then descends sharply as it flows through the Sea of Galilee before emptying into the Dead Sea, 1,290 feet below sea level. Hydrographic surveys have shown the river could provide power and irrigation for Jordan, Syria, Lebanon and Israel if peace comes to the Middle East.

Gilligan Sees No More KSU - Style Clashes

By PERRY SMITH
Associated Press Writer
KENT, Ohio (AP)—Gov.-elect John J. Gilligan, winding up what he called a pilgrimage to Kent State University, said Tuesday night he found a good deal of tension and bitterness on campus.

"At the same time," he said, "there was a strong note of hope that they (students and faculty) were not going to see things take the same course they did last spring."

Gilligan's remarks came at a press conference following an afternoon of conversations with Kent State students, faculty and Kent community leaders.

He also met privately with university President Robert White.

Addressing some 1,000 students and faculty members in the school auditorium, Gilligan pledged he would, as governor, attempt to avoid any confrontations similar to those that hit the campus last spring.

Four students were killed and nine wounded in a confrontation with Ohio National Guardsmen May 4.

"No university demonstration need ever be allowed to escalate into a general riot," Gilligan said. "No more students need ever be shot by Ohio soldiers attempting to establish civil order."

Gilligan, during his speech, announced plans for a Volunteer Corps of Young Ohioans to help solve the state's problems.

He said the organization would be the first step of his administration to recruit the talents of all citizens in the process of state government.

Gilligan named Gerald Springer, a 28-year-old Cincinnati attorney, to head the program. Springer will have offices in the statehouse.

At the press conference, Gilligan said the 90-minute session with students showed there was extreme bitterness over the special grand jury indictment of 25 persons — 24 students and one faculty member — resulting from the May disorders.

He indicated he would permit the prosecution of the cases to go under his administration.

The grand jury, he said, obviously had reasons to believe there were violations of state law. He said it was hard for him to comment on the indictments since he did not hear the testimony or see the evidence presented.

Under sharp questioning from some 60 students, Gilligan said one of the first things he would do after taking office Jan. 11 would be to request the FBI's report on the disorders.

"I don't believe the actions of the National Guard were justified," he told a questioning student.

"That's a far different thing than saying there was criminal intent."

Meeting earlier with community leaders at city hall, Gilligan said he would offer legislation to subsidize local governments that have large educational institutions in their midst.

He said that Kent State enrollment of some 21,000 students had an enormous impact on local government. The city of Kent's population is around 30,000. The university's property is not taxable.

He said the money could be reached by tapping additional sources, specifically a tax on corporate profits and a personal income tax.

Gilligan has already announced creation of a task force to study overhaul of the state's tax system.

Gilligan, at one point in his discussion with students, agreed he had at one time endorsed some form of abortion law but told them he had no plan to push abortion reform in the General Assembly.

He told the students he did not think ROTC belonged on a college campus — "especially for academic credit" — but said he did not believe all Defense Department research projects should be withdrawn.

The projects, he said, should be viewed separately because not all of the grants are related to the Indochina war.

2 Named As Ohio State Trustees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes Tuesday announced appointments of John L. Gushman of Lancaster and Robert S. Dorsey of Cincinnati as members of the Ohio State University Board of Trustees.

Both are Ohio State graduates. Gushman is president, chief executive officer and director of Anchor Hocking Glass Corp., Lancaster. He formerly was president of Owens-Illinois International Glass and was former counsel for the Owens-Illinois Glass Co.

Gushman obtained both his arts and law degree from Ohio State.

Dorsey is in charge of reliability, advanced engineering and technical resources operations at the Evandale General Electric plant.

A member of the OSU football team in 1947 and 1948, he received his degree in mechanical engineering at OSU in 1949.

Soviets Set Big Budget For Defense

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government Tuesday announced a 1971 defense budget of 17.9 billion rubles, or $19.8 billion at the official rate, the same as the expenditure for 1970.

Finance Minister Vasily Garbuzov told the Supreme Soviet, the parliament of the Soviet Union, that government spending next year would total 160.8 billion rubles, an increase of 16.3 billion.

The Soviet government puts a value of $1.11 on the ruble.

According to the figures announced by Garbuzov, defense spending in 1971 will consume 11 per cent of the total budget. But the allocation to defense is believed to represent only about half of actual military spending. For one thing, military research and development is lumped into other nondefense items.

Before the budget report, the government's chief industrial planner announced that Soviet industrial production made a comeback in 1970 and increased 8 per cent to exceed the central planners' goal by a healthy margin, the Soviet parliament was told.

But Nikolai K. Baibakov, chairman of the Economic Planning commission, complained that performance could have been better if modern technology had been introduced quicker.

Baibakov told the Supreme Soviet the average worker's wage in 1970 is 126 rubles a month, of $139.86 at the official rate, excluding the numerous welfare benefits. He said it was 121 rubles at the end of 1969.

Clinton Airbase Has Big Mission

By TAHLMAN KRUMM
Associated Press Writer
WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)—What similarities are there between airborne mercy missions flown over the territories of Ethiopia, Morocco and South Vietnam?

Apart from the nature of the missions, many of the pilots and crew members aboard those flights may well have received part of their training at Clinton County Air Force Base here.

The Wilmington facility joins with Elington Air Force Base in Texas and Dobbins in Georgia as the three operational reserve U.S. Air Force bases in the country.

Of the three, only Clinton County trains members of foreign and allied air corps to fly and maintain the World War II vintage C-119s, the famous "flying boxcars."

The training, conducted under the auspices of the broad U.S. Military Assistance Program, has been going on at Clinton County since the fall of 1968.

Base Commander Brig. Gen. Ben J. Mangina said exact figures for the number of pilots and airmen actually trained at the facility since 1968 could not be made public.

The Department of Defense has classified such information as confidential. The department did say that 1,315 from eleven countries are undergoing military training in the U.S. at the moment. Sixty-one of those foreign pilots are currently at Clinton County for training, the Defense Department said. All of them are officers in the Air Force of South Vietnam.

Mangina described their instruction as training in the methods of flying the C-119s on medical and airlift supply missions.

The intent is to produce men capable of responding effectively to either natural or man-made disasters.

The C-119 has other uses, too, in Southeast Asia. Selection of candidates for the training is made by foreign authorities at the invitation of the U.S.

"The training received is exactly the same as that received by American airmen," Mangina said, even to the efforts put forth to make them feel comfortable in the surrounding community, to get them involved in non-military matters.

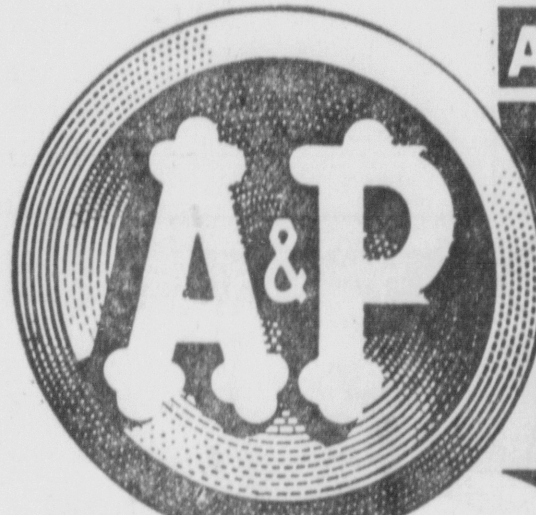

Mangina said the foreign troops assigned to the base are eager to learn and manage quite well.

As far as language problems go, Mangina said, "most of them have a working knowledge of English when they get here."

"It may be a requirement of their governments," Mangina added. But great pains and time are still taken to get difficult ideas across, he said.

Training at the base varies from about one month to more than two months depending upon the type of training being given and the qualifications of the trainees involved.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Brother Becomes Unwanted Guest

DEAR ABBY: My brother got married a year ago, at which time he and his wife moved in with our widowed mother. It looked like a good deal for everyone because Mama owns a big house and was living all alone in it. Well, the three of them lived together for one year, and it didn't work out, so Mama asked them to move.

Now for the problem: My brother and his wife refuse to leave. Last week Mama invited the family over for supper and my brother wouldn't let them in the house. He bolted the door, with my mother on the outside, too.

We went to our lawyer and he says it is a family affair and he can't do much. Right now Mama is staying with one of my sisters and the whole family is very upset about it.

How can we get my brother and his wife out of Mama's house? My brother refuses to talk to any of us, and says he doesn't have a family anymore. I promised my mother I would write to Dear Abby for some advice. Maybe you or one of your readers can help us.

Set Reform Of State Department

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department unveiled Tuesday a broad self-reform program aimed at pumping new life into a diplomatic corps it admits has grown stuffy.

Praised by Secretary of State William P. Rogers, the plan urges faster promotions for younger foreign service officers and encourages them to argue policy with their bosses.

Out of it all emerges the image of a fast-moving, quick-thinking diplomat bypassing older counterparts in deciding how the U.S. gets along with the rest of the world.

Acknowledging department shortcomings in carrying out the President's mandate that it take charge of U.S. government activities abroad, the diploma-reformers portrayed the department as all too cautious, stand-pat, and parochial.

"The traditional mode of reflection and detachment cultivated by diplomats trained in the old school," they said, "must be reinforced by a more dynamic and aggressive style if the department is to play the role which the President expects of it."

In all there are 500 changes drawn up by some 250 professional diplomats under Deputy Secretary William B. Macomber.

Farmer's A 'Civilian' Once Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — James Farmer is returning to his old role as a civil rights activist after what he says were generally unhappy 20 months inside the federal bureaucracy.

"I must confess that I chafed in the ponderous bureaucracy and long—especially now—for my old role as advocate, critic, activist," said the 50-year-old former head of the Congress of Racial Equality, announcing his resignation Monday as an assistant secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Farmer, one of the Nixon administration's top black officials and probably its best known, said the crucial factor in his resignation was not his disagreement with the President's racial policies.

"I haven't been satisfied with the civil rights policies of any administration," he said at a news conference. "I have had differences with this administration as with other administrations."

Farmer declined to disclose these disagreements until he leaves the government in two weeks to lecture, write his autobiography, and organize a "think tank" to inject the ideas of minority groups into government.

His goal, he said, is to address the racial and economic divisions of the nation.

"I am convinced that this road, within government, is not the one through which I personally, can be most effective serving my people and my nation," Farmer said.

Antiwar Amendment Brought Back

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents of expanded American involvement in Cambodia will ask the Senate to approve for a second time the Cooper-Church amendment severely limiting presidential use of American military force in the Southeast Asian nation.

The Cooper-Church development came after the Senate and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., expect to reoffer their amendment—passed by the Senate last year but rejected by the House—when the Foreign Relations Committee considers President Nixon's request for more aid to Cambodia.

The Cooper-Church development came after the Senate

Mayors Conference Split On Development Of SST

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A resolutions committee at a conference of the nation's mayors has decided by one vote to urge withdrawal of federal support for development of the super-sonic transport plane.

After the vote Tuesday at the 47th annual congress of the National League of Cities, Mayor Louis Welch of Houston, the committee chairman, predicted a floor fight on the issue when the whole conference considers the resolution Thursday.

Mayor Joseph Alboto, of San Francisco, a supporter of the resolution, had asked for a roll call after a show of hands showed its defeat by a 26-25 margin.

The Senate has voted against and the House for $290 million of federal funds for continuing the development of the plane, which

Mahoning Deputies Back On Job

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Two of Mahoning County's three commissioners have agreed to "fully endeavor" to raise the sheriff's department payroll by $53,000 in 1971.

More than 30 deputies walked off their jobs last month — leaving only eight deputies and some supervisory personnel on duty — when commissioners refused to promise adjusted pay for 1971.

Sheriff Ray T. Davis had granted pay raises about mid-year and his funds were depleted as a result. Deputies had agreed to work at half pay if granted the raises.

Deputies returned to work early Tuesday morning.

Commissioner George Bindas refused to sign the memorandum agreement, saying Davis had violated Ohio law by extending his 1970 payroll with the pay raises.

Under the agreement, Davis is to "reduce his work force as much as necessary" to stay within his new 1971 payroll of $360,000. Four or five jobs are expected to be eliminated to save a minimum of $40,000 in pay. This would permit Davis to continue to pay deputies at the $7,900 annual rate given them in their pay raise.

South Court School Christmas Program Set

The song-playlet "The Spirit of Christmas" will be given at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the South Court Elementary School with students in the first three grades taking part. Also assisting with the program will be the kindergarten students.

Songs heard during the evening will include: "Christmas Chompsticks," "Christmas Song," "Christmas Lullaby" and "Silent Night." Soloist for the program will be Cheryl Grabbins, who will portray Mary, the mother of Jesus.

The teachers and the principal extend the invitation to parents and friends to attend this program which is given in place of the regular PTA meeting.

government in Phnom Penh is every bit as dependent on American aid as is the government in Saigon."

The aim of Cooper-Church supporters, in asking the Senate to approve the amendment a second time, is to emphasize Senate feeling against any U.S. military role in Cambodia, despite the aid program.

If accepted by the Senate, the amendment could delay until next year approval of Nixon's $255 million Cambodia aid program—$155 million in new economic and military assistance and $100 million to pay back funds already transferred to that country from other aid programs.

In passing 89 to nothing Tuesday a $66.4 billion defense money bill, the Senate approved the same bar on ground troops in Cambodia as was enacted a year ago for Laos and Thailand.

It faces an uncertain fate in the House, which has no similar provision in its $66.8 billion version of the defense appropriations measure.

But it is far less inclusive than their amendment last June to the military sales bill which barred funds for "retaining" U.S. troops in Cambodia; for dispatch of U.S. advisers or support of efforts in behalf of the Cambodian government by other countries such as Thailand, and for air strikes in direct support of the Cambodian regime.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers told an Appropriations subcommittee Tuesday the aid program for Cambodia will require limited personnel to make sure the funds get to the intended recipients. But he stressed "we have no intention of slipping into the mistakes of the past" by becoming more deeply involved in Cambodia.

Rogers and Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said 70 per cent of U.S. military aid to Cambodia will be for ammunition.

The secretaries said congressional approval of the Cambodia aid request will make possible further U.S. troop withdrawals from South Vietnam after the 284,000-troop level is reached next May 1, but they declined to be specific.

They likely will face further questioning on the point when they appear Thursday and Friday before the Foreign Relations Committee.

gave overwhelming approval Tuesday to a ban on U.S. ground combat troops in Cambodia and as the Foreign Relations Committee prepared the release of a staff report on conditions in Cambodia.

In summarizing the report, Church said:

"As of today, the Cambodian has amounted to $600 million with a total projected at $3 billion, compared to a federal request for mass transit for the whole nation over the next 12 years of $500 million.

"If we talk about national priorities, we have to draw the line somewhere and there is no better place to draw the line than here," Lindsay said.

"Think of what that money could do for the quality of life for people of our cities crying out from the strangulation of city living."

Mayor Kemper Williams of Victoria, Tex., argued "We are four or five years behind the Russians and the French in developing an SST" and said continued federal support was necessary to assure that U.S. aerospace technology did not suffer significantly.

Mayor Avery Garrett of Renton, Wash., said, "The SST is a research program and nothing more. There will be time to solve the environmental problems before we go into mass production."

Regula To Probe Computer Use

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Legislative Service Commission named Sen. Ralph S. Regula, R-29 Navarre, Tuesday to head a subcommittee studying the use of computers and data processing in government.

The project is aimed at providing more efficient use of computers by state government and local agencies.

Regula suggested the computer study. He will be joined on the committee by Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, and Reps. A. G. Lancione, D-30 Bellaire, and Charles Fry, R-9 Springfield.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has filed a friend-of-the-court brief urging the Supreme Court to permit Ohio to sue three firms, one of them in Canada, for alleged mercury pollution of tributaries of Lake Erie.

"We contend there is no legal reason why this court should not permit the complaint to be filed," Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold said in the brief.

He said the government contends there is no federal law or treaty which precludes the state from taking independent action to deal with water pollution.

The high court agreed Oct. 12 to hear arguments on whether it should accept the case under its original jurisdiction.

Ohio seeks an injunction banning further discharge of mercury into Lake Erie, damages to pay for cleaning up existing pollution and additional compensation "for the existing and future damages to Lake Erie, the fish and other wild life, the vegetation and the citizens and inhabitants of Ohio."

The companies are Dow Chemical of Canada and Wyandotte Chemical Corp. and Dow Chemical Co. in the U.S.

The companies contend they are no longer discharging mercury that would reach Lake Erie should be a federal-state question rather than unilateral one undertaken by Ohio.

Christmas stocking.

After they open the toys and the ties and the wallets and the watches, there's one more gift to go.

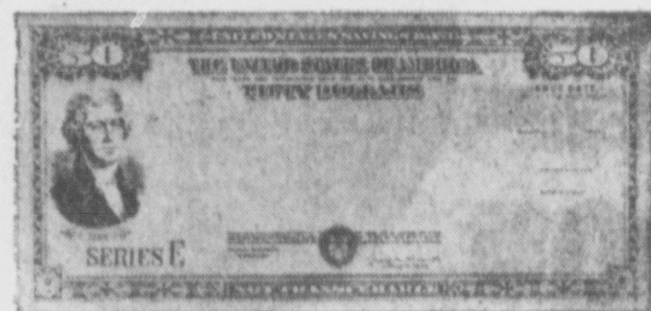

It's nestled at the bottom of the Christmas stocking. It's a U.S. Savings Bond. Probably the easiest gift you can give. Just stop at the bank and pick it up.

And, it's one of the nicest gifts anyone could hope to receive.

It even comes with its own special gift envelope. Choose from four different designs.

What's more, now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5 1/2% when held to maturity of 5 years 10 months (4% the first year). That extra 1/2%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

A U.S. Savings Bond. For Christmas. It will help fill a stocking this year. And a wallet in the years to come.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.
With higher paying U.S. Savings Bonds.

See Boom For Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University's Bulletin of Business Research just published says the economic outlook for Ohio following the General Motors strike "is for expansion at a rate probably exceeding that of the economy as a whole."

Ohio industry, the bulletin said, has been little affected by federal cutbacks in spending for defense and space exploration. The cutbacks have severely depressed aerospace and electronic components industries in other parts of the nation, notably California, Washington state, New England, and Florida.

Ohio has been affected by the sluggishness in business spending for new plants and equipment, the bulletin said, and by the holdup in consumer discretionary spending, as well as by the GM strike, which idled some 100,000 manufacturing employees.

Researchers in the university's Center for Business and Economic Research also said "the auto strike settlement, plus the steel industry stockpiling, plus increased consumer spending for autos, appliances and other durables, plus expansion of residential and other construction activity will have unusually expansionary effects on the Ohio economy."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 1971 budget totaling $9,737,340 was approved Tuesday by the Ohio Turnpike Commission. The board also okayed a 1970 budget supplement of $200,000 to cover increased costs.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Part of NBC's master plan for jazzing up the second half of its current season is showing only "world premiere" features instead of film reruns in its Monday night movie spot.

If all the upcoming made-for-TV efforts move at the pace of Tuesday night's "world premiere," it promises to be a long winter. The two-hour program was called "Breakout," and was out of those prison dramas built around one man determined to escape.

At the end of one hour and a half, nothing much had happened except to set the stage for the big wind up. The characters included Joe Baker, a bank robber with a heart of gold, played with remarkable insouciance by James Drury; his prison pal, acted by Woody Strode a comedy relief role, a prisoner called "Pipes," played by Red Buttons, using a squeaky voice, and an assortment of guards, accomplices and, of course the girl.

The program began in an unidentified state penitentiary, but was actually shot at Folsom Prison in California. The location of our hero's escape attempt was the high Sierras.

A two hour action show needs more than an authentic background and great scenery. By the time "Break Out" moved into the meat of the story, it was perfectly obvious what would happen.

The prisoners, a work gang logging on the mountain, were pressed into a hunt for a boy missing in a blizzard. Naturally, Joe found the boy while trying to escape—and naturally took the youngster back to his parents and himself, presumably, back to jail.

Meanwhile, Morley Safer was making his debut as co-host on CBS's "60 Minutes." He narrated and appeared in a segment describing the work and training of sky marshals now riding shotgun on the commercial airlines in efforts to foil skyjackers.

Safer's style is more flamboyant and aggressive than that of Harry Reasoner, whose place he has taken on the show. Because Mike Wallace operates in much the same fashion, the program promises to become more hard-hitting and dynamic.

In the segment, viewers saw the interior of a transatlantic plane and heard some anonymous sky marshals talk of their functions. There were shots of passengers willingly submitting to an electronic frisking as officials hunted for guns.

It has been several seasons since NBC presented the shocker, "Who Killed Lake Erie?" Now comes a poet, Rod McKuen, with an NBC special about animals on the verge of extinction from greed, carelessness, disease or overcrowding. It will be seen on Jan. 8.

Pollution Control Board Seeks Accord With Cleveland

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Water Pollution Control Board extended an olive branch to Cleveland Tuesday, but let city officials know it still carries a big stick.

The board offered to lift its ban against new sewer connections—which has the effect of freezing new construction — if the city agrees in writing to comply with pollution control orders.

At the same time, the board said it would consider no more requests for variances pending receipt of letters of intent from both the Cleveland city administration and City Council.

The board commended the administration of Mayor Carl Stokes for recent progress in improving treatment facilities. But it expressed dismay over lack of cooperation between the administration and council.

In Cleveland, law and utility department officials said they were studying the proposal.

In other action following the hearings, the board imposed a building freeze on Columbiana County Sewer District No. 1 affecting the community of Calcutta.

The freeze was ordered to prevent further pollution of an Ohio River tributary at Calcutta. The board ordered the district to proceed with construction of sewers and a sewer treatment plant and continued the hearing until March 9.

The board also continued hearings and building freezes for the following municipalities and counties: Canton, Independence, Louisville, Avon, Belaire, North Royalton, Obetz and Allen and Ashtabula counties.

The board ordered Amherst to submit a general plan for pollution facilities by Feb. 9 and continued the hearing until then.

Hearings for Fort Loramie, Mineral City and Marion County were continued to April 13 with orders to comply with the board's past pollution control directives by the hearing date. The hearing for West Leipsic was continued until Aug. 10 with orders for detailed construction plans and arrangements for financing.

County Cage Action Features Top Frays

County cage action will be hot and heavy Saturday night with Teays Valley hosting Logan Elm and Zane Trace invading the land of the Westfall Mustangs in a Scioto Valley Conference fray.

Westfall will entertain the cagers from East Clinton Friday while Teays Valley will be on the road at Franklin Heights. Logan Elm will be idle Friday.

Coach Bob Hoover will take his cagers to Franklin Heights in search of the first Viking win of the year. Teays Valley has been putting points on the board but haven't been able to put it all together as yet.

They have been up against some tough competition in their first four games and have been edged in some close contests.

"YOU have to win the close ones," Coach Hoover stated, "and so far we haven't been able to come up with the big win. Mistakes have hurt us but we are working hard to cut down on our turnovers and improve our play."

"We have some good boys," Hoover continued, "and one of these nights things are going to jell for us."

The Vikings will have to counter a tough man to man press if they are going to be successful at Franklin Heights.

Teays Valley's big job Saturday will be to control the boards against the efforts of Mark Kuece of the Logan Elm Braves.

Starting for the Vikings will be Bob Tucker and Don Makarius at the guards, Don Neff at center and Jeff Helsler and John Glick at the forward posts.

Westfall will be coming off three straight losses after winning its first two games of the season and will be striving to get back onto the winning trail.

THE flu bug has hit the Mustang cagers and Coach Jeff Bigam probably won't know his starting lineup until game time.

"We have been working on our offense," Coach Bigam offered, "to get a little more zip into our attack. Our boys haven't been getting the good shots and you can't win if you don't get the shots," Coach Bigam said.

East Clinton will bring in a club with a control offense and good shooting personnel and the Astros will utilize a pressing man to man defense against the Mustangs.

Zane Trace will floor a club that has taken up where last year's unit left off and is hard to contain. They press on defense and Dave Hammond powers a good shooting offense.

Logan Elm will be coming into the Teays Valley contest off a big win over Westfall and will be out to make it three in a row in the victory column.

The Braves' man to man defense has been improving all the time and was effective in their last wins.

Coach Chuck Pritchard's Braves have a balanced scoring attack led by their two seniors, Mark Kuece and Chuck Sims. Kuece is also the lad who controls the boards and sets the Braves' offense in motion.

Knicks And Celtics Win, Hold 1-2 Order In NBA

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Celtics are running faster than anyone thought they would, but they still can't catch the New York Knicks.

The Celtics, picked by many to finish out of the playoffs—behind the Knicks and Philadelphia in the National Basketball Association's Atlantic Division, have run themselves right into second place.

Using a lightning fast break led by perpetually moving John Havlicek the Celtics have reeled off nine straight victories, the last a 122-102 sprint past Buffalo Tuesday night.

However, the surge still has left Boston three games behind New York, which moves along pretty quickly, too, swishing past running, gunning Portland 139-121.

In other games, Milwaukee knocked the Atlanta Hawks 125-104. Seattle came back to beat Philadelphia 107-104, the Chicago Bulls held down San Francisco 98-87 and Los Angeles defeated Phoenix 121-112.

The Celtics, displaying the type of fast break that helped them to 11 NBA titles in 13 seasons before their decline, rushed to a 59-44 halftime lead, and when the Braves closed to within six in the final quarter, Havlicek turned on the steam again. He finished with 34 points.

Willis Reed did the damage for the Knicks, leading them on a 14-2 run at the end of the first quarter and then to 13 straight points at the end of the second for a 66-48 halftime lead that never was threatened. Reed finished with 37 points.

Jon McGlocklin scored 10 of his 17 points at the start of the third period, lifting Milwaukee from a 58-53 intermission lead to a 75-62 spread, and Atlanta never caught up. Lew Alcindor had 24 points for the Bucks, who won for the 21st time in 24 games. Lou Hudson had 30 and Pete Maravich 29 for the Hawks.

Hawkeyes Top Ashland; Win 82-56

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The University of Iowa presented basketball Coach Dick Schultz with his first win as the Hawkeyes whipped Ashland of Ohio 82-56 Tuesday night in a non-conference game before 12,513.

The loss was Ashland's first in three games.

Sophomore Sam Williams and Fred Brown, who suffered a sprained ankle at the start of the second half, paced the Hawkeyes with 20 and 15 points, respectively. David Jones led the Eagles with 17.

In other Ohio college basketball action Tuesday, John Carroll came back from a 13-point deficit in the first half to over come Western Reserve 68-60 in a Presidents Athletic Conference victory.

Akron thrashed Otterbein 106-86 in the Zips season opener at home while Kenyon hosted and whipped Walsh College's Cavaliers 85-72.

Host West Liberty, W. Va. defeated Steubenville 91-83. Cedarville fell 84-67 to Urbana College at Cedarville and Eastern Michigan stopped Cleveland State 86-77.

New York Rangers Lose To Canucks, 4-1

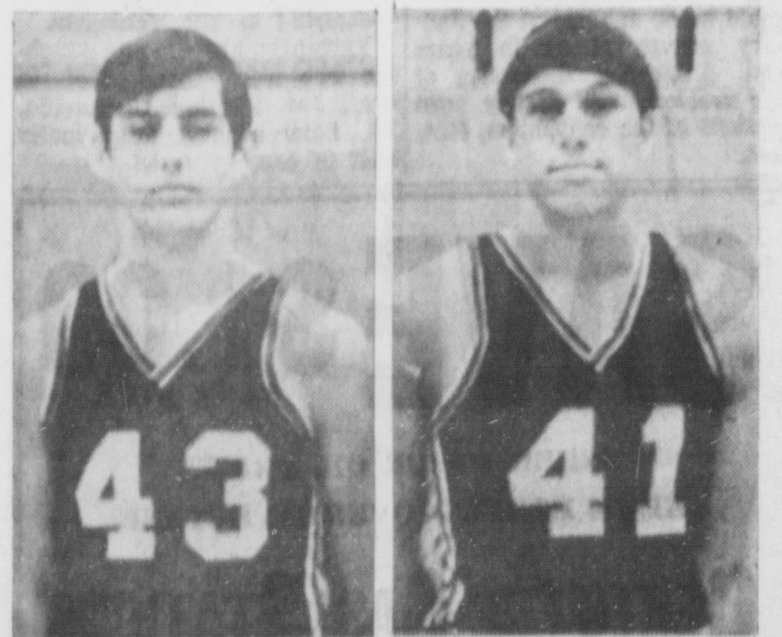

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York's Rangers had their eyes on the standings—and wound up flat on their backs.

The Rangers, trailing Boston's 14th place Bruins by a point in the National Hockey League's East Division, skated into Vancouver Tuesday night with visions of victory like their 4-1 triumph last Sunday over the Canucks.

But Mike Corrigan, Wayne Maki and Charlie Hodge had other ideas and, as a sellout crowd of 15,569 roared its approval, the Canucks evened things up by pounding New York 4-1.

Meet The Braves

Gary Benner (43) and Jeff Young (41) are junior members of the Logan Elm High School basketball team. Benner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ora Benner, Route 4, and Young is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Young, Route 1, Stoutsville.

Little All - America Football Team Named

By HERSHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Leon Burns, a smashing power runner from Long Beach State—whom his coach says is better than O. J. Simpson and Mike Garrett—was named to the Small College All-America team for the second year in a row today by The Associated Press.

Joining the 228-pound senior in the offensive backfield are three record-breakers—quarterback Jim Lindsey of Abilene Christian and running backs Leon McQuay of Tampa and Joe Profit of Northeast Louisiana.

Two more record-setters are ends John Curtis of Springfield and Harold "Red" Roberts of Austin Peay.

Burns runs the 40 in 4.5 and is very strong. He's also 27 years old and that's the only reservation the pros have about him.

After gaining 1,659 yards in 1969, Burns got off to a slow start this season because of an ankle injury. But he wound up with 1,035 yards on 275 carries, caught five passes for 89 yards and scored 20 touchdowns.

In a two-year career he gained 2,692 yards and scored 47 times.

Coach Jim Strange knows whereof he speaks when he compares Burns to Simpson and Garrett because he coached those two while as assistant at Southern Cal.

Lindsey was called by one opposing coach "the best passer in Texas, including Chuck Hixson." He holds the all-time NCAA career passing record of 8,521 yards—and that includes large and small schools and the fact that he missed the last game with a broken collarbone.

This season, Lindsey completed 198 of 369 passes for 2,077 yards—including 414 against top-rated Arkansas State—and 22 touchdowns.

McQuay, one of two juniors on the first team, set a Tampa ground-gaining record of 706 yards in 1968 and broke it last year with 971. This season, he carried 196 times for 1,362 yards—a 6.9 average, returned 14 kickoffs for 396 yards and scored 20 touchdowns.

Profit, a 206-pounder who has 9.5 speed over 100 yards, is the Gulf Coast Conference's all-time rushing champ and was named to the league's Team of the Decade for the 1960s.

Curtis set New England game (214) and season (1,900) records for reception yardage in 1969 and was accorded all sorts of special defenses this season.

Still, he grabbed 43 passes for 753 yards—a 17.5 average—and set a New England career record of 1,848 yards.

Roberts, the other end, played on mediocre Austin Peay teams and without an exceptional quarterback, but still became the sixth receiver in history to snag more than 200 passes. Coach Jimmy Feix of Western Kentucky calls him "the best clutch receiver I've ever coached against."

The interior line consists of a pair of likely early-round prospects at the tackles—268-pound Vernon Holland of Tennessee State and 250-pound Melvin Holmes of North Carolina AT.

The guards are 248-pound Bill Phillips of Arkansas State—the other junior on the team—and 253-pound Conway Hayman of Delaware while at center is little—compared to his running mates—215-pound Jimmy Champion of Jacksonville, Ala., State.

On the defensive unit are ends Lawrence Brame of Western Kentucky and Richard Harris of Grambling, tackles Fred Carter of Alcorn AM and Charles Roundtree of Grambling and guard Margarito Guerrero of Texas A1. The line averages a pro-size 251 pounds, and that includes Brame, who weighs a mere 212.

The linebackers are Ronnie Hornsby of Southeastern Louisiana, Len Pettigrew of Ashland and Isiah Robertson of Southern U., with Nathaniel Allen of Texas Southern, Joe Cichy of North Dakota State and Bivian Lee of Prairie View AM as the deep backs.

Guerrero was on the second team a year ago while Carter and Pettigrew made the third team.

Two super-stars who could be among the first players drafted by the pros failed to make the first team because of injuries. Quarterback Dan Pastorini of Santa Clara missed four games but completed 80 of 136 passes for 1,015 yards. He made the second team.

Pastorini is a 6-foot-2, 218-pounder who connected on 293 of 549 attempts in his career for 2,820 yards and 35 touchdowns. He also punted for a career 41.2 average and did the place-kicking, including a school record 46-yard field goal.

On the third team as an end is Frank Lewis of Grambling, actually a flanker in the Tigers' offense. Perhaps the most explosive performer in the history of college football, the 196-pound speedster compiled unbelievable statistics a year ago. He caught 33 passes for 740 yards and carried the ball 45 times for 774.

Hampered by a thigh injury this season, he still caught 25 passes for 411 yards, gained 217 on 27 carries and scored 13 times.

Senior Bowl North Squad Named; South Sets Picks

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Quarterbacks Lynn Dickey of Kansas State and Dan Pastorini of Santa Clara head up a 29-man North squad announced Tuesday for the Senior Bowl All-Star game Jan. 9.

They will be aided by a speedy corps of receivers led by H.D. Hill of Arizona State and two of the top running backs in the Big Eight Conference, Kansas' John Riggins and Missouri's Jim Harrison.

The North squad for the 22nd annual post-season game was announced by Senior Bowl President Theodore K. Jackson.

He said the South squad will be named within a few days.

A capacity crowd of 40,646 is expected for the 1 p.m., CST, kickoff. The game will be televised nationally (NBC).

Dickey, despite rib injuries during part of the season, passed for 2,163 yards in 1970 and boosted his career total to 6,208 yards on 591 completions.

Pastorini, described by scouts as "a real diamond in the rough," passed for almost 4,000 yards for the Santa Clara Broncos.

Other receivers are Kansas State's Henry Hawthorne and Oklahoma State's Herman Eban. At tight end will be Doug Dicken of Illinois.

Other running backs are Fred Willis of Boston College and Clarence Davis from Southern California.

Interior offensive linemen include:

Centers—Tom Beard of Michigan State, 6-6, 252; and Leo Dillon of Dayton University, 6-3, 235.

Paul Brown Urges Caution On Bengals

CINCINNATI (AP) — Coach Paul Brown has issued a word of caution to his streaking Cincinnati Bengals about thinking more than one game ahead.

"We can't afford to think of any other game except the one we have next," Brown told his players about the contest Sunday against Houston in the Astrodome.

He also said that "we don't want to get distracted, or let ourselves digress to what the other teams are doing."

The Bengals, riding a five-game winning skein, share the Central Division lead of the National Football League's American Conference along with Cleveland. Both teams have 6-6 records.

The Bengals, in order to grab the division title, have to win both their remaining games if Cleveland wins one of its two remaining games. If both teams win both games, Cleveland will take the division because it will have a better record against division teams.

These are the things Brown said he does not want his team to think about. "We just can't dwell on what anyone might or might not do."

Dolphins Trip Florida State, 114-108

By TED MEIER

Assoc. Press Sports Writer

The way Art's Gilmore of the Jacksonville Dolphins is going he could be the college basketball player of the year as well as the highest scorer.

The 7-foot-2 giant did it again Tuesday night. He scored 31 points and grabbed 26 rebounds in leading the Dolphins to a 114-108 victory over Florida State in the final of the Civitan Charity tournament.

He now has scored 139 points in the four games the nationally third-ranked Dolphins have won and was a unanimous choice as the outstanding player in the tourney.

The largest crowd ever to see a college basketball game in Florida, 10,112, watched the game at Jacksonville's and cheered Gilmore as he dominated the boards against the Seminoles' 6-11 sophomore, Reggie Royals.

"We aren't really trying to make Artie the national scoring champion," said Tom Wassdin, coach of the Dolphins. "We are trying to win games and we are going to our strength."

In other games involving the Associated Press Top Ten, fourth-ranked Marquette downed Minnesota 70-61, seventh-ranked Drake crushed Iowa State 87-63 and Villanova, No. 10, humbled Detroit 95-67.

Among the Second Ten, No. 17 Tennessee shaded Wake Forest 60-59 and No. 11 Indiana defeated the touring Australia Nationals 80-72.

Boston College nipped Harvard 73-71 in the final of the Beanpot Tourney. In other games Hofstra upset Temple 74-72 in overtime, Illinois topped Vanderbilt 96-79, Pitt overcame Wisconsin 81-76 and California routed San Jose State 90-55.

Soph 6-11 Jim Chomes with 25 points, led Marquette over Minnesota. Tom Bush paced Drake with 23 points and Chris Ford's 28 points led Villanova.

Mike Edwards hit a jump shot from the corner with eight seconds left to give Tennessee its one-point victory. Charlie Davis of Wake Forest dribbled the length of the floor and sank a layup in the last second, but officials ruled the horn had sounded before he got the shot off.

Jimmy O'Brien stole the ball and scored in the last six seconds to give Boston College its victory over Harvard in the Beanpot final.

Temple's setback by Hofstra was the Owls' first defeat in 18 years on their home court. Clutch foul shooting by Al Wolfson, Dave Bell and Quinas Brower won for Hofstra in the overtime.

Greg Jackson, 6-8, led Illinois over Vandy with 29 points while Rod Freeman scored 31 for the Commodores. Kent Scott's 32 points paced Pitt over Wisconsin.

Southern Methodist beat Oklahoma City 91-74 behind 33 points by Bobby Rollings. Rutgers whipped Columbia 74-61 and North Texas State defeated Indiana State 79-72.

Browns Drill To Prepare For Cowboys

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Coaches and players of the Cleveland Browns reviewed films of Dallas and held a light workout Tuesday in preparation for Saturday's game with the Cowboys.

The contest is important to both clubs, with the Browns tied with Cincinnati for the lead in the American Football Conference's Central Division with two games to go, and Dallas tied with New York, a half-game behind leading St. Louis in the National Conference's Eastern Division.

Tuesday is usually an off-day for the Browns, but the players insisted on session because of the loss of time to prepare for the game. The Browns beat the Houston Oilers 21-10 on Monday night and even with Tuesday's workout, have just four days to prepare for the Cowboys.

NFL teams usually have a full week between games. The Cowboys will have running star Calvin Hill, the NFL's "rookie of the year" last season, ready for Saturday's game, but Hill probably won't be in the starting lineup.

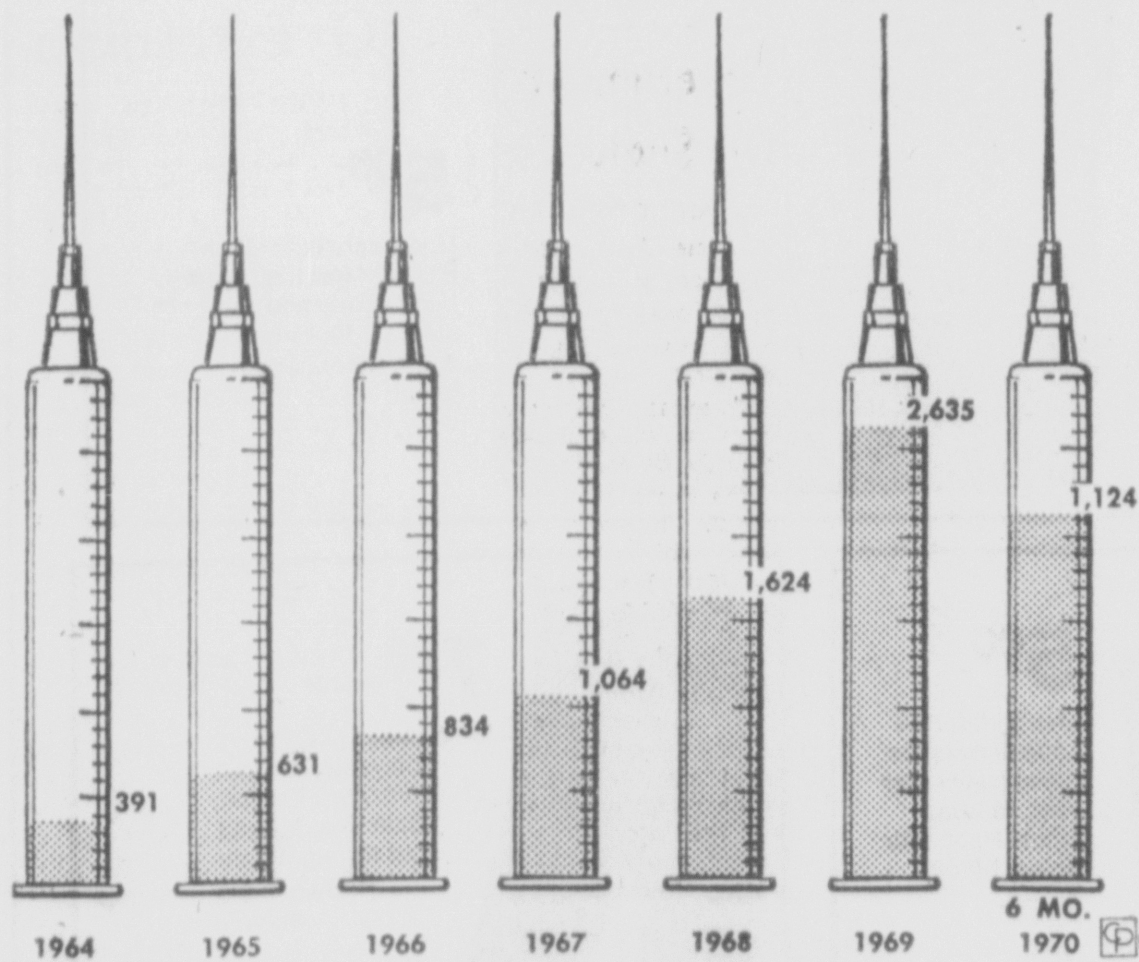

Hill, recovering from injuries, has lost his spot to rookie Duane Thomas, who has picked up 618 yards this season.

Thomas, the Cowboys' top draft choice last year, calls himself a complete runner. "I'm an inside and outside and over (runner)," he said. "Wherever they tell me to go, I go."

"He's the best we've had as far as hitting on all types of plays and being able to break things open for the long gain," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "We think he's a natural at halfback but he can play fullback, too."

Cleveland's Leroy Kelly, who gained 108 yards in 20 carries at Houston, said he was physically fit for the final two games.

Cesar Gutierrez, Detroit Tiger shortstop, made seven hits in seven at bats in Cleveland last June 20. His bat was sent to the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y.

THE GROWING MISUSE of drugs nationally makes this chart of the climb in military rejections for drugs of grisly interest. Drug abuse discharges seem to be on the rise, too—3,786 in 1969 and 2,504 in the first six months of 1970. The Medical Corps are setting up rehabilitation programs for drug users.

Von Duml, Lindsey Share Crown

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Lindsey of Abilene Christian and Tim Von Duml of Portland State, a pair of former sore-armed quarterbacks, once again share the crown as the most potent field generals in College Division football history.

For the second successive year they rank one-two in passing and total offense after the final 1970 statistics were released today by National Collegiate Sports Services.

It's the first time in the 22-year history of the NCAA college division records that two players have held such a dominant role. Both are seniors.

Lindsey won the total offense crown, amassing an average of 294.9 rushing-passing yards a game to Von Duml's 276.5 aver-

High Court Eyes Job Challenge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government and civil rights lawyers are joining in a Supreme Court bid to safeguard job rights of young mothers.

Using the case of a Jacksonville, Fla., waitress as a springboard, the Justice Department and the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund are seeking a ruling that employers may not refuse to hire women simply because they have young children at home.

All this shapes up as the first high court test of a 1964 civil rights law provision guaranteeing women protection against job discrimination.

Martin Marietta Corp., defendant in the suit, insists there is no real evidence to build a discrimination claim and that the appeal reached the high court too late to be considered.

The case of Ida Phillips, a white woman with seven children, already is well known in the capital. Earlier this year, "sexism" charges were leveled at G. Harrold Carswell by women liberationists because he cast a vote against reconsideration of her suit by a federal appeals court.

The charges did not help Carswell's efforts to win Senate confirmation as a Supreme Court justice. He was ultimately defeated.

Mrs. Phillips' case began when a receptionist told her she could not be considered for a factory job because she had children of preschool age.

Both U.S. district and appeals courts found Mrs. Phillips was not turned down by Martin Marietta because she is a woman but because she is a woman with preschool age children.

The Justice Department and the Legal Defense Fund say this interpretation could imperil job opportunities of the more than 4 million American women in the labor market who have young children at home. Many of these women are black. About one-third provide the sole support of their households or have husbands with incomes below $5,000 a year.

A big issue in the case is whether Martin Marietta hired men with school-age children at the time Mrs. Phillips applied for a job as an assembly trainee.

"To require of prospective women employees that they not have preschool-age children, while not requiring the same of men, is to discriminate against women on the basis of sex," Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold and Justice Department lawyers said in a brief to the court.

But attorneys for Martin Marietta told the court the record does not show the company's practice at the time and that without such evidence a discrimination argument fails.

Above all, the firm's lawyers are stressing a point that has doomed many test cases before: the technical rule that petitions for review be filed within 90 days of the ruling by the appeals court. Mrs. Phillips' petition, they maintain, was filed Jan. 10, 1970—more than seven months after the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans entered judgment against her.

FAA Tests New System To Avoid Air Collisions

FREMONT, Calif. (AP) — In brilliant green letters, "conflict, conflict, conflict," flashes persistently on the big screen.

Dotted green lines run out from two points, eventually converging.

The air traffic controller starts pressing buttons and in a few seconds the lines vanish and the word "clear," replaced "conflict."

Thus what could have been a collision between airliners is averted nearly an hour before it might have occurred.

This is being done by a new system of control being tested at the Federal Aviation Administration's Air Route Traffic Control Center in Fremont, across the bay from San Francisco International Airport.

The program, which started a week ago, is a cooperative effort among the FAA, Aeronautical Radio, Inc., which serves as relay center for airliners flying the Pacific and the Fremont center, and a number of electronic and communications firms.

The new system depends on a "data link," a miniature computer aboard the aircraft.

Every 32 seconds in a split-second burst of computer language, the plane's number, flight plan, position, altitude, speed and weather conditions are flashed to the control center's screen.

By supplanting the present direct voice communication method, the data link system provides startling speed and a tremendous reduction in the burden on air traffic controllers and pilots.

While pilots now have to keep trying to reach the control center on crowded radio frequencies, 100 planes can send their fraction-of-a-second information under the new system without delay and receive almost instantaneous response from the ground.

Under the present system, the air controller keeps track of each plane in his sector through its voice broadcasts and stores flight information on paper slips.

If two planes appear headed on converging courses, the controller has to sift through the slips, compare them to find the course conflict, make a mental image of his sector, then check to find alternate safe altitudes and courses.

The new system puts the same information on a screen.

FAA regulations say planes 20 minutes apart are in conflict, the new system gives a 50-minute warning.

After the tests and evaluations are completed next year, the FAA plans to establish a network of at least five data link centers across the country.

According to officials, it now takes at least a year to train a traffic controller, but the 16 controllers at Fremont learned how to operate the new system in eight hours.

Parma Man Recaptured

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — A 28-year-old Parma man who was being held on a counterfeit charge when he and two other prisoners escaped from the Stark County Jail at Canton was captured Monday afternoon by FBI agents.

The FBI said William Genco was found hiding in a closet Township near Youngstown.

Genco had been placed in the Stark County Jail to await disposition of counterfeit charges following his arrest in Cleveland Nov. 5.

Genco and two Cleveland men escaped Saturday night after slugging a jail guard. The others — James H. Smith, 21, and David C. Zatezalo, 26, also held on counterfeiting charges — were captured in the jail parking lot as they tried to start a deputy's car moments after he escaped.

The FBI said the three escapees would be charged with violating a federal prison escape law. Maximum penalty on conviction would be a five-year sentence and a $5,000 fine.

Cleveland Judge Named U.S. Attorney

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cleveland Municipal Court Judge Frederick M. Coleman, 53, was named by President Nixon Tuesday as U.S. Attorney for the Northern District of Ohio. The appointment is subject to confirmation by the Senate.

Coleman would succeed Robert Krupansky, who was elevated to a federal judgeship.

U.S. Citizen Still Held By Poland

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Eugenia Muller apparently must supply a $1,000 retainer before an attorney can start representing her husband, who is in a Polish jail on suspicion of spying.

A State Department spokesman in Washington told the Dayton Journal-Herald Tuesday a lawyer has been assigned to Adam Muller, 43, but everything is at a standstill pending arrangements for the retainer.

He said no word had been received from Mrs. Muller on financial arrangements.

Muller fled Poland in 1953 by canoeing to West Germany. He came to the United States, became a naturalized American citizen and went to work as an engineer for the National Cash Register Co. here.

He was arrested Oct. 31 at Walegory in southern Poland while visiting his ailing father. He is being held for allegedly engaging in foreign espionage.

The State Department official said Muller was traveling as a U.S. citizen with a U.S. passport and carried a visa issued to him by Polish authorities.

But an aide to Rep. Charles W. Whalen, R-Ohio, the first U.S. official contacted in the matter, said Muller's visa expired Oct. 31, the day of his arrest.

Wholesale Prices Dip

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wholesale price index for November fell one-tenth of 1 per cent, a bit less than earlier predicted, but still an encouraging note against the slow national economy.

The Wholesale Price Index was 117.7 for the month with the one-tenth loss, which was only the second drop in two years. For every $100 worth of food, materials and services in the 1967-69 base period, it now costs $117.70.

The index was 2.6 per cent above the November 1969 level, the smallest annual increase in 27 months. Average industrial prices did not go up for the first time in 17 months.

Despite the wholesale cost decrease, living costs in October were 6 per cent above the 1969 figure. The cost of living indicator was at 137.4, meaning it cost the average family $12.74 for every $10 worth of goods and services they bought in 1957-59.

Tuesday's November wholesale price list showed farm prices down seven-tenths of 1 per cent, against the earlier estimate of nine-tenths.
